Baptist Bible College Entertains Students At Dinner-Program

On Thursday evening, Sept. 12, the board of directors of the Torrance Baptist Bible college entertained the students of the college at a dinner served at the First Baptist church. The occasion marked the beginning of the fourth year of Bible study under Britton Ross, dean of the college.

Following the group singing of the Doxology, Dan Pierson led in prayer. Special features were a piano solo by William Morgan, "Liebestraum," followed by the male quartet composed of Kenneth Knowles, Virgil Sackman, Leland Pisel and Dan Pierson singing "The Riches of Love in Christ Jesus." Rev. C. Miles Northrup, president of the college, conducted the program. Board members introduced by Dan Pierson, president of the board, were Merle Maddy, Homer Morgan, William Tolson, R. Hocott, Mrs. Bob Haggard and Mrs. O. E. Gwynn. Britton Ross, dean of the college, presented the speaker of the evening, Dr. Harold Propp, pastor of the First Baptist church of Hollywood, who chose as his text, Ephesians 5:15. His subject, "What Every Christian Should Do In 1946." Comparing present days with those of Paul, the apostle in Ephesus, it was noted that men now, as then, are living Godless lives—lives without God. Since in greater darkness, the brighter will a light shine, the students of the college were challenged to live lives consecrated and set apart as a testimony to Him.

The exhortation of Paul was given that Christians walk circumspectly, shrewdly, in the fear of the Lord, and filled with the spirit of God. Following announcements by Rev. Ross and a treasurer's report by Homer Morgan, the evening was closed in prayer by Merle Maddy.

Preparation of the dinner was supervised by Mrs. Helen Miller. Assisting in serving were Margaret Svensk, Virginia Hill, Nello Hocott, Zella Bourne, Claudine Pickett, Pat Cecil and Jeanette Farquhar.
